2019 GLOBAL CLIMATE LAW AND GOVERNANCE STUDENT ESSAY COMPETITION

Are you interested in the legal and governance challenges posed by climate change? Do you have ideas on how legal instruments and institutional reforms can contribute to addressing climate change?

THEN ENTER THE 2019 GLOBAL CLIMATE LAW AND GOVERNANCE STUDENT ESSAY COMPETITION!

Topics
Essays should be in line with the themes from the 2019 Climate Law and Governance Day (CLGD). In general, these will cover innovative legal tools and the challenges and opportunities around climate change legal frameworks. More information on the official topics will be posted through our social media channels and website.

Requirements
Length: 2,000 to 4,000 words (excluding footnotes).
Language: English, Spanish or French.
Consistent legal citation style and double spacing.

Winners
Winners will be announced in an awards ceremony alongside COP25 in Santiago, Chile. The best entries will be published by CISDL*, and authors will be invited to submit their articles to MJSDL for possible publication. Authors will also have the opportunity to participate in the climate moot held during CLGD 2019 if they so desire.

Eligibility
The competition is open to undergraduate and graduate students. Students from least developed countries are especially encouraged to apply.

Submission
Send your entry and a short biography to <climate-essay@cisdl.org> by June 22nd, 2019
